HIV TESTING

Name of Patient _____

Human immune-virus (HIV) is the cause of acquired immune deficiency syndrome (AIDS). Blood tests for HIV is available, however they are not 100% accurate and sometimes these blood test produce false positive and false negatives test results. The presence of HIV antibodies means that a person probably has been infected with the AIDS virus, does not necessarily mean that a person will develop AIDS. Women who are generally considered to be at a higher risk the development of HIV infection are those that engage in sexual activity with bisexual men, have multiple sex partners, use drugs intravenously, receive multiple blood transfusion, or those who received blood transfusion prior 1985, the absence of any of these risk factors does not eliminate the possibility of having acquired an HIV infection, Pregnant women who are HIV positive are at very high risk for transmitting the virus that causes AIDS to their unborn child during pregnancy, there are, however, treatments that can in many instances prevent transmissions of HIV virus to the fetus.

Considering the above information I choose not to have my blood drawn for HIV testing.

- * B. I do not consent to the release of the nature of the test(s) to my insurance companies or any person. I understand that this will mean that I must pay the bill for the test myself, at the time the service is rendered and should not submit the bill to my insurance company for reimbursement.
